MR. EDITOR: —For any man to say that the press is not a nighty engine for good, is simply another way of assenting that that man is misplaced in the 19th century, and should have lived sometime before the flood. Only think of it, my for fear that you may think me vain in taking all this credit to myself, it may be that these happy results in road traveling are partially attributeable to your "New Hotel" articles, winding up as they did with the doggerel of which any poet

The Turf.

DEAR EDITOR :- The great event has come and gone, and the Steeplechase of last Saturday is now numbered amongst the things of the past. We (your correspondent prefers to write to you in the editorial phraseology) turned over in our mind last Saturday afternoon whether there was any chance of our making more than $10,000 that day, and finding said circumten" were there in buggles and on horseback, including many bung ladies, and pretty ones, too, Mr. Editor. They evident the galloping over the plains with their numerous attendant man-acted as clerk of the one starter &c., having got all the horses into line, the toss being previously won by .. Gay as to who should lead, that gentleman at the word go, put the "Grey" in a masterly manner over the first stone wall, followed by Messrs. Tom Cleghorn, Ashford Spencer, S. B. Dole, Henry Machriane, Hervey Whitney and others. All got over ease, and then galloped for the next wall, led on by Mr. Gay, and we could soon discern that this was not the first time that and we could soon discern that this was not the first time that gentleman had ridden in a steeplechase. Mr. Totn Cleghorn, with his arm in a sling, got over the ground in gallant style on a Colt belonging to Mr. C. Judd, and we understand the same coit had only been handled some ten days. Mr. Henry Macfarlane took his fences well, on a very likely horse, we should think, if trained. We noticed our friend Lawyer Dole, on his staunch little horse, take his fences splendidly, our legal friend sitting his horse like a Grenadier. The balance of the field all managed equally well, and considering that none of the horses were trained, and some of the walls we are told 4 feet 6 inches high, they did remarkably well to get over so clean. There high, they did remarkably well to get over so clean. There was only one fall—our friend the Lawyer had a tumble—but quickly redeemed his lawrels by putting the little horse at the high stone wall, and landed him safe in his usual clever style. It being understood from the first that Mr. Gay was to lead, all through, no one attempted to pass him, therefore as a nat-ural consequence he came in first, followed by the other gentle-men as they started. We felt that we should have liked to try our old horse at a sence, but visions of a tumble and the likelihood of having to undergo considerable chaff from a dis-

The Steeplechase over, slowly and sadly we rode away from a field of glery, across Waikiki's dusty plains, towards town, inking of the Steeplechases we had seen and hope to see again, and while musing on horsey matters, visions arise in our fertile brain, of the Hawsian Jockey club, with patrons, stewards, a three quarter mile race course on the plains, grand stands, saddling paddock, &c., &c., which we thought would come to pass if some of our moneyed friends would take the matter us, backed by a Paternal Government and a Legislature work of $1,000 per annum for a "King and " to be run for. SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, Reformatory School.

The Gazette gives us a chapter on the Reformatory School, the whole sum and substance of which is, an extremely weak attempt to excuse the desire of the Minister of Foreign Affairs to divert the results of a public charitable institution, founded and maintained by the funds of the nation, to swell the proceeds of a private speculation. Of all men in the country, one would suppose that the King's Ministers would be the last to allow to attach to themselves the shadow of an imputation of a desire to get "cheap labor" for their private enterprises from such a source. But what are the facts? "The proprietor of the Kaneohe Plantation, himself a member of the Board" of Education, and a Minister of the King, proposes to take ten of the larger boys-" the strongest and likeliest "-and place them on his plantation. They were to be indentured as apprentices, and to be well instructed " in all the branches of the sugar manufactory." The first branch in the manufacture 18-Haw bk R C Wylie, H Haltermann, 117 days from of sugar, is of course, planting the cane. Other branches follow in succession-hoeing, stripping, cutting and carting to the mill. These important parts of the process of manufacturing sugar, are now performed by either Chinese coolies, or native laborers, under contract, and this was, without doubt, just what it was intended the boys from the school should do. No one, we think, will seriously centend that the ten boys were to be put at once into the boiling house, and instructed in "the art and mystery" of making sugar on a plantation of so magnificent proportions as even that of Kaneohe. It would indeed require the making of a considerable amount of "arrangements" before the manager would be prepared to receive the ten apprentices who were to be " well-instructed " in the use and management of defecators, McOnie's clarifyers, the art of liming, vacuum pans, train of kettles, strike pans, and thermometers,-to say nothing of the art of charcoaling! When we alluded last week to the possibility of such an idea being entertained, we plead guilty to an inclination to speak satirically, seeing that we added-" but were they simply to learn how to hoe and strip cane for their poi and odoriferous salmon together with lodging," &c. But it seems that we were misunderstood, or perhaps we should say, we unwittingly gave the Minister a hint, by which he assumes a virtue, though he have it not. So, Schooner Gussie Lyon arrived on Thursday, Sept. 21st, 2 days from Yokohama, viz Raual. She is a Japanese-built essel, and has been a Yokohama pilot boat until recently, being a little over a year old. During the passage to the islands, with any more "distinguished consideration" with any more "distinguished consideration" than that shown to any other field hands. It is asserted that the arrangement intended "was very acceptable to the boys themselves." We have the statement of a boy who left the school about the time that the ten were selected by the Minister, that they were trembling in their shoes for fear that they should be sent to Kaneohe, against their wills, (though their fears were we doubt not groundless) and that he himself considered it a piece of good luck that he got a chance to go elsewhere.

The framers of the Act for the establishment of the Reformatory School, and the Representatives of the people who advocated and passed it, and the nation at large which looks hopefully for its beneficial results,-have never intended, or for a single moment imagined that the school was to

dren, to such employments, and cause them to be instructed in such branches of useful knowledge as may be suitable to their years and capacity; and they shall have power, at their apprentices, during their minority, to such persons and at such places, 16 learn such proper trades and employments, as, in their judgment, will be most conducive to their reformation ent, and will tend to the future benefit and ad

Surely there is an abundance of other and far preferable employments and occupations to which those children can be devoted, than their becom-

Circuit Judge of Oahu.

A case came before His Honor, Judge Kamakau, during the past week that calls for notice and comment. Three persons, two natives and a foreigner, were convicted before a District Justice in Koolau of this island, of the crime of cattle-stealing. One of the natives, the principal actor in the affair, took an appeal to the Circuit Judge at Chambers. On the trial the following facts were shown in evidence: The appellant was found by the foreigner in the woods at Koolau, with a bullock tied up. At his request, the foreigner assisted to cut up the bullock, which appellant slaughtered and then left, taking a portion of the meat and the hide. Shortly after, two persons came along and discovered the foreigner and a native moving away from the cardear sir, that since the communication of your correspondent last week in regard to that ere bridge and that ere mud slough, it has been decided by the magnates to shorten the time for completing the first named, and the latter has had planks laid over the worst portion of it, so that now it is tolerable. But cass, in a suspicious manner. Subsequently the of the neighborhood, it was taken to him and identified. The appellant hearing of this, went to Mr. Nebeker, and offered to give another bullaureate needn't be proud.

By the way, I always thought it was rather insolent for you to meddle in the affairs of the Hotel, seeing that you never had any money to subscribe to the institution, but merely offered to eat the dinners thereof, free, gratis, for nothing. But I suppose you thought that excusable, because, you being a good G. T., couldn't possibly partake of the wines. But however, as I have wandered from my original subject, I'll floor for the case of the one killed, if nothing further was said about the affair. He also offered the foreigner who assisted in the killing, a bullock to say nothing about it. But Mr. Nebeker, very properly considered it his duty to report the case as one of cattle-stealing, instead of allowing any compromise, or compounding for a felony. The three men were therefore prosecuted, and convicted, the principal criminal bringing an appeal before Judge Kamakau. These are the unconstance not likely to occur, at 3:30 mounted our good old plug to i. e., horse, and rode out to the trysting place on the Plains to take notes for your especial edification. Already a large collection of Kanakas on horseback had arrived on the ground, and at 4:30, the time of starting, a goodly array of our "upper most unaccountably, the man was acquitted, and the country of the starting of the starting and on horseback, including many goes forth encouraged to still continue his dep-

We had occasion, several months since, to comment on the course of this Judge in equitting a person charged with raming and the style of argument adopted then by His Honor was very similar to that used in the present case, i. e., that while there was one witness who swore that he saw the act committed, there were two who did not see it! Can anything be more sapient? As we remarked on the first occasion referred to, -while the necessity never really existed for the creation of the office of Circuit Judge for Oahu, its operation is detrimental to the execution of justice, and its continuance is positively mischievous to the public safety. A proper regard for the majesty of the law which is outraged, and the reputation of our tribunals, which is soiled, demands prompt action in this matter, before worse may result. The difficulty of finding this official when wanted is matter of notoriety. We speak advisedly when we say that cases of appeal from the lower courts to his, have accumulated unheard for months together, until recollection of the circumstances is lost and parties interested are wearied out with waiting for his movements. The foreign members of the bar cannot be induced to attend his court, and the prosecuting officers of the police appear by their action to consider their presence there a waste of time.

Judge Kamakau holds several offices under government, more or less renumerative. There can be no question but that a decided saving to the Treasury would result were this instance of pampered plurality to be shelved with a pension.

WE understand that a meeting of the subscribers to the Hotel Bonds will be called for Wednesday of next week, at the Finance Department. The meeting will undoubtedly be looked forward to with a great deal of interest.

THE public had been aware that government winks at some kinds of Sabbath-breaking, such coaling steamers on that day-for which some excuse may be found-but when the Minister of Finance notifies Hotel Bond subscribers to call at

On the subject of the Hotel scheme, public opinion, which long remained passive but deep, becoming aroused to activity. Our own comnents and strictures upon the subject have been but the exposition of that opinion-" the second, soher thought "-which, deciding carefully and with deliberation, knowing its power, executes its decision thoroughly and severely.

Our thanks are due and hereby tendered to Citizen," the vapid and puerile correspondent of the Gazette, for the opportunity which he has afforded our own correspondent, CRITIC, to utterly annihilate him. A more thorough and scathing and at the same time smooth cutting blade than that of CRITIC, does not often appear to prove the value of the liberty of the press, which in our case at least, the government party (by which we mean the subsidized) would fain see suppressed.

WE commend to the careful perusal of our readers the Report of the Inspector General of Schools to the Board of Education, for the year ending August 1st 1871, as published in the last Gazette. Mr. Hitchcock's Report evinces a careful personal examination of his subject, and esents it plainly and with force. Want of pace prevents our reprinting it entire, but we propose to comment upon some of the most sugestive points at a future opportunity.
